IT IS MANDATORY TO HAVE A DREAM
UNIQUE DRILLING FLUIDS, INC.
A Message From the CEO

Sitting at home contemplating whether or not I should write technical literature or give the world something that comes to my mind at this very moment is a no brainer, I have decided to choose the ladder. Walking downtown I often see people that are in a disarray and not just distant people but people who I may know or have known from the past. Their economic circumstance may not be the best but it goes deeper than that. If anyone knows me then they will know that I will speak to anyone. My scientific inquisitiveness and just plain ole curiosity often has me wondering where did things go wrong? Why are they in the situation that they are in?

Believe me when I say that I am the last to judge anyone's past or present. I have made several mistakes in my lifetime and continue to do so. I however, realize that mistakes can be prevented but not only that they must be prevented. We only have one life to live and we must take full advantage of the opportunities that are present. I asked a person that I have known for quite sometime who may not be what the average American would call stable; do you have any goals? Better yet what are your dreams? His answer was " At this point I do not know, at this point I have no dreams."

It dawned on me at that moment, that this is the problem. There is never anything wrong with dreaming. No matter how old or young every man, woman and child should fulfill their dreams.

"Making A Difference!"

Every person should have the opportunity to experience a dream coming true. If one does not have a dream then there is nothing to fulfill. If this is the case then we merely exist without a cause or purpose. My dad told me a very long time ago that “nothing comes to a sleeper but a dream son.” I have since added in a different sense that a dream should be manifested into a reality. Then and then only is the dream justified. Dr. King said it best, in his “I Have A Dream” speech. He understood that without that dream a world in which we live in today would not and could not be possible. Living in a world that constantly wants change for the better, a world that allows for diversity and cultural unification. Do not get me wrong, things are not perfect by a long shot but it is up to us to look into the mirror and tell ourselves that we will do what we have to do to make the world better today.

So I ask myself, and others that may know me asks, “given your life and what you have been through what keeps you going?” Where does this drive come from? Where does the motivation come from? I tell them, the refusal to lose! I tell them that the dreamer never sleeps, for he or she is always working to manifest their dreams. I tell them a spiritual guidance and faith knowing that my destiny is neither in man hands nor mine. I tell them the will to live and do good things for my family and for others. ? I tell them that I do not just want to exist but to be an effective citizen, to be a meaningful being. I tell them that I want to live forever, not necessarily in the flesh but in the memories of those whose lives I have touched. In the memories of those who may have learned a thing or two from me and quote me as I quote my elders daily. I tell them that I have a job to do and that is to create jobs, train and provide opportunities for others. I decided and am willing to carry that burden to put it on my shoulders and make my dreams come true.
